

Right to Read Leadership Statewide Training*

Leadership Series

8:30-11:00am

Leadership training focused on systems and structures necessary to support a sustainable, district-wide multi-tiered instructional and assessment model. The leadership training will be focused on the following topics: leadership structures and routines, implementing a tiered instructional framework and equitable instruction for all, building a consistent literacy knowledge and expertise in all staff, using data to make educational decisions at all levels and engaging families.

Science of Reading Series

12:30-3:00pm

Our virtual Introductory Science of Reading Professional Learning Series teaches critical components of literacy instruction, integrating current research into each module and translating it into classroom application. The series consists of ten 2.5-hour facilitated, synchronous modules held via Zoom and continued learning through asynchronous materials and follow up activities.

Required for those local and regional boards of education granted ARPA Right to Read funding*
