STATE OF CONNECTICUT
ADVISORY COMMISSION ON INTERGOVERNMENTAL RELATIONS

February 2010

To the Connecticut General Assembly:

In accordance with P.A. 97-50, the Connecticut Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations herewith submits this updated report on statutory and regulatory mandates affecting Connecticut municipalities. P.A. 97-50 now requires the Commission to publish the compendium every four years, with supplements to the compendium published in the intervening years. This is the first full compendium since 2006 and we have added all the new mandates adopted from 2006 – 2009, as well as removed mandates that have been repealed during that time. We have also edited some previous entries.

The nature of state statutory direction of municipal responsibilities has its origin in the State Constitution which, in Article Tenth, establishes that the General Assembly "shall by law delegate such legislative authority as from time to time it deems appropriate to towns, cities and boroughs relative to the powers, organization and form of government of such political subdivisions."

It has followed that the state statutes have been used to build a mosaic of authorizations, organizational frameworks and requirements regarding local government structure and operations. It is the degree of specificity of these state requirements that generally determines the policy relationship between the state and local governments. The greater the detail of the state law, the less flexibility and policy role exists for municipalities.

Regulatory mandates are those that are contained in formal state regulations, adopted in accordance with the Uniform Administrative Procedures Act. Regulations implement specific sections of the Connecticut General Statutes and are usually more detailed.

Regulations cannot be enacted absent statutory authority. To the best of our knowledge, the mandates in this report all have such authority, although caution should be used to ensure that the underlying statute is still in effect. In the past, we have found regulations where the underlying statute has been repealed. In the normal course of events, the affected state agencies will repeal regulations in accordance with section 4-168(g) of the general statutes; however, there may be a substantial period of time between the two events.

Users should be mindful that this publication is intended only as a reference guide. In providing regulatory information to the public, the appropriate source for such information is the Regulations of Connecticut State Agencies. The regulations are updated numerous times a year, with the most recent update available through the Commission on Legal Publications at (860) 741-3027.

Types of Mandates

We have organized this compendium into sections as follows:

Part I - includes the list of statutory mandates adopted by the General Assembly and is divided into three sections to reflect three different types of mandates:

Section A - includes the statutes that mandate actions on the part of municipalities;

Section B - includes statutes that mandate actions if a municipality chooses to perform a service which is not mandated (although the service may be essentially unavoidable);

Section C - includes statutes that are mandates on all entities performing certain functions including, but not limited to, municipalities.

Part II - includes the list of regulatory mandates adopted by state agencies and is divided into two sections;

Section A - includes the regulations that mandate actions on the part of municipalities;

Section B - includes regulations that mandate actions if a municipality chooses to perform a service which is not mandated (although the service may be essentially unavoidable);

Mandate Impact

The mandates listed range widely in scope and impact, from such significant statutes as Section 10-15, which requires every town to provide public schools, to statutes with little individual impact on municipalities such as Section 9-309, which defines the procedure for announcing election returns.

Many of the statutes included in this report have impacts that clearly meet the statutory definition of mandate, while others have minimal effect by themselves, but cumulatively have a significant impact on either specific local officials or municipalities as a whole. A series of statutory requirements, all of which require attention and/or action by a local official (such as a school superintendent, a registrar of voters, or a town clerk), can have the effect of defining and mandating the essence of that job, while none of the individual requirements would be considered as being significantly intrusive.

At the same time, this listing of mandates should not be considered to be a "hit list" of bad statutes. State and local officials concur that some degree of state guidelines and direction is appropriate under our system of government from both legal and practical standpoints. Legally, the state is the sovereign entity and the municipalities are creatures of the state. Practically, there are many governmental issues that are administered by local governments, but in which statewide uniformity is important. These issues can range from elections to property assessment standards to police training to aspects of education administration, and beyond. It is the determination of these issues, as well as the details of the requirements and the costs involved, that have been, are now, and will continue to be the subjects of discussion and debate.

Mandate Costs

This report contains an estimate of the costs of the Section A mandates. Municipalities point to the narrow revenue-raising base available to local governments under state law, a significant amount of which is taken up in fulfilling state mandates. The property tax is essentially the only major source of tax revenue for local governments in Connecticut. This heavy reliance, as well as the uneven spread of property wealth among the municipalities, makes it difficult to place additional financial requirements on local governments.

The state points to its aid to local governments as one of the largest elements of the state budget, and as available for use by municipalities, particularly those with the greatest needs, in meeting state requirements. As with the debate over the substance of the mandates themselves, the issue of paying for state requirements is an ongoing dialogue. Each of the Section A mandates is characterized as to cost as being either significant, moderate or minor. These characterizations are defined on the page immediately following this letter under the heading Mandate Cost Characterization Definition.

Mandate Reductions

A major concern of the commission over the years has been mandate reduction. The General Assembly passed several pieces of legislation that reduced or eliminated state mandates on municipalities over the preceding four years. That legislation includes:

State Mandate Definition Connecticut General Statutes

As defined in Sec. 2-32b(2) of the Connecticut General Statutes, "state mandate" means any state initiated constitutional, statutory or executive action that requires a local government to establish, expand or modify its activities in such a way as to necessitate additional expenditures from local revenues, excluding any order issued by a state court and any legislation necessary to comply with a federal mandate.

Mandate Cost Characterization Definition

The task force developed the following general characterization criteria for the fiscal impact assessment of mandates:

Minor:	estimated to be less than 0.1% of the town operating budget
Moderate:	estimated to be 0.1 - 1% of the town operating budget
Major:	estimated to be more than 1% of the town operating budget

For instance, if a town budget is $20 million, a major mandate would be anything that costs over $200,000, a moderate mandate would be anything that costs between $20,000 and $200,000 and a minor mandate would be any that costs under $20,000.

Although this is the definition that we used, there may be exceptions because mandates may impact communities differently. It should also be noted that while many individual mandates may be characterized as minor, the cumulative effect may be greater. For example, there are numerous minor education mandates which, taken together, require personnel just to monitor the mandates.
