The Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station New Haven, CT

Technical Bulletin 29
August 2023

A total of 323 vegetable, crop, and pasture seed samples were collected by inspectors from the Bureau of Regulation and Inspection of the Connecticut Department of Agriculture for testing in 2021. As the official seed testing laboratory, The Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station performed germination and purity analyses of the seed samples for compliance with the Connecticut Seed Law Regulations and the Federal Seed Act. Seed tests and analyses were conducted by following the Association of Official Seed Analysts (AOSA) Rules for Testing Seeds.

Among 317 vegetable seed samples, only 314 samples were tested for seed germination rates because the other three samples did not have enough seeds for the test (Table 1). Among the tested vegetable seed samples, two hundred forty-nine samples passed the germination test, but the other 65 samples did not meet their label claims and the Federal standard (Table 1). The spread of fungal mold from contaminated seeds had significant impacts on germination rates in some seed samples that failed seed germination testing. Summarized by seed sources, one or more vegetable seed samples from all companies, except Back to the Roots and La Semiorto Sementi, where the samples were collected failed germination rate tests (Table 2). Grouped by vegetable species, bean, beet, cantaloupe, cilantro, okra, pea, pumpkin, and squash consisted of more samples that did not meet the claims than the other species (Table 3). Seed samples were examined for prohibited noxious weed seeds and no vegetable samples contained noxious weed contaminants.

All five received crop samples passed purity and germination rate tests by meeting the label clams and passing the tests with acceptable tolerances (Table 4).

One pasture mixture sample was received and tested for purity and germination rates. The result showed that the sample passed purity and germination tests for all ingredients by meeting the label claims or passing the tests within acceptable tolerances, but the purity of Gallant Red in the mix failed to meet the claim (Table 5).

Official seed samples were collected by Kate Nelson at the Connecticut Department of Agriculture. The Seed Law is administered by the Seed Control Official for the Commissioner of the Department of Agriculture.

Table 1. Results of germination rates of vegetable seed samples in comparison to label claims.
