Provider Description

Information provided by the provider describing their agency:

Community Vocational Services, Inc. is a Rhode Island based non profit corporation doing business in the State of Connecticut.

Incorporated in 1991, CVS has had experience with supports and services for people with disabilities in Connecticut for over 40 years through its affiliation with the Frank Olean Center. Since 1991 CVS has formed a separate board of directors that has both family members and participants represented.

CVS offers Individual and Group Supported Employment, Day Service Options (DSO) in the form of Community Experience Programs, Continuous Residential Supports (CRS), Supported Living as Home Supports for adults and children, Transportation, and is qualified to provide Respite Services.

We focus services on three basic concepts: Community Integration, Independence and Productivity. These concepts form the foundation of all services and are based on participant and family input, team input and the capacity of CVS to address a participant’s goals within the design of the CVS programs. Services are implemented in the community as much as possible and some supports are offered at our day site in Westerly. Job Coaching Services are done on site at each employer based on the person’s support needs (coaching or direct supports) and are supported through follow up contacts as needed.

Presently located in Waterford, Connecticut, CVS maintains a day site as well virtual services throughout Ct. CVS is a small organization that is growing and expanding its array of supports and services as evidenced by its offering of Home Supports to adults and now children. CVS enjoys small ratios of staff to participants and the team works closely to address the needs desires and goals of each participant. Family input and participation is encouraged so planning involves as many people involved with the person served as possible.

Our philosophy is to place the participant first and if we do, then the rest will follow.
