Welcome to the Summer 2023 issue of the DMHAS Update. As we approach the midpoint of summertime and the long hot days continue to roll on, several important observances occur during this time. In June we observed LGBTQ+ Pride month, a time to celebrate diversity, individuality, and visibility. It also provided an opportunity to have conversations about mental health struggles within the community and resources available for help. In July, we observe National Minority Mental Health Awareness Month, which brings awareness to the unique struggles that racial and ethnic minority communities face regarding mental illness in the United States. These observances are important because they help to raise awareness of the issue while highlighting available relevant resources. Visibility, conversation, and understanding are essential in order to bridge the disparity gap and create equal access to mental healthcare across all genders, sexualities, and demographics. This is something we are addressing on a daily basis as we continue to work towards true healthcare equity.

As always, feel free to reach out with ideas, questions, or feedback. See you back here in August!

CT Partnerships for Hope and Healing Grant Announced

DMHAS recently announced that it has been awarded a 5-year, $3,675,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) to enhance statewide and community-level mental health promotion and suicide prevention, intervention and response capacity. The CT Partnerships for Hope and Healing (PH2) youth suicide prevention grant will be co-directed by DMHAS and the Departments of Children and Families (DCF) and Public Health (DPH), the lead state agencies for suicide prevention.

The PH2 grant will utilize comprehensive, equitable, public health approaches and evidence-based practices and strategies to address gaps and reduce suicide attempts and deaths among youth age 24 and under. Planned enhancements include a Training Collaborative, Data to Action Dashboard, 988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline co-promotion with the state’s 1 WORD, 1 VOICE, 1 LIFE suicide prevention campaign, and the release of Connecticut’s Suicide Prevention Plan 2030. The grant will also fund the development of coordinated and sustainable partnerships within five prioritized areas across schools, campuses, community organizations and clinical services to ensure at-risk youth are identified, connected to care/treatment, provided with lethal means counseling, safety planning, and follow-up services. The LGBTQIA+ Collaborative & OOC's Multicultural Celebrations Committee Honor Pride Month

Pride is a joyful celebration of all of the beautiful identities of the LGBTQIA+ community. Throughout the month of June, spaces are created nationwide where LGBTQIA+ individuals can bring their whole selves to dance and march in the streets and declare: We are here. We are visible. We are proud! However, this also a moment of crisis for many in our communities. Lives are literally on the line. Too many people – trans people, Black and Brown people, people living with HIV & AIDS, people being denied basic care – are facing unprecedented attacks. Despite this, the LGBTQIA+ community and their allies, rise up and continue to fight for equality, justice, and freedom. As we honor and celebrate Pride month, we must never forget that Pride was inspired by the 1969 Stonewall Uprising in Manhattan.

The Stonewall Uprising was a series of protests led by the LGBTQIA+ community, in which brave individuals stood their ground. Stonewall served as a catalyst for the LGBTQIA+ rights movement in the United States and around the world. On the one year anniversary of the Stonewall Uprising, the first Pride Parades were held in New York, Los Angeles, and Chicago. Today, brave individuals are still fighting and will do so until all individuals are able to have freedom without exception, liberation without exception, joy without exception, and pride without exception.

EAP Mini-Grant Awards

In the Spring of 2023, DMHAS-funded providers were invited to apply for EAP Mini-Grant Awards, which were funded through the SAMHSA CT COVID-19 Behavioral Health Response and Assistance program. These one-time grants were meant to assist providers with developing or enhancing their employee assistance programs (EAP) or to cover the cost of new or additional EAP service needs resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic. Advanced Behavioral Health, Inc., the DMHAS administrative services agency, processed and reviewed applications and issued payments directly to providers.

The grants proved helpful to providers in offering additional support to their staff. “Family CT employees work tirelessly with families impacted by violence, trauma, substance use, and so much more. We would be naïve to think that the vicarious trauma and burnout our staff experience does not take a toll on them. While we encourage staff to take time off to recharge and take care of themselves, we have never before had an opportunity to provide mental health services to our staff in the form of an EAP. I am grateful to be able to offer our staff a tangible resource to use when they are experiencing burnout, secondary trauma, or otherwise needing to seek support in their personal or work life. The EAP Mini-Grant we have been awarded will allow us to implement and sustain a much-needed employee assistance program at our agency for the next two years,” said Jodi Baloga, Director of Community Programs for Family Centered Services of CT.

Cora Grandy, Business Manager for McCall Behavioral Health Network, added “the overall health and wellbeing of staff is paramount to the exceptional care we at McCall Behavioral Health Network provide to our clients every day of the year. Being able to provide a solid means by which our staff can maintain a healthy work-life balance helps to ensure that our staff, clients, and community as a whole are getting the best possible care from McCall Behavioral Health Network.”

In all, seventeen grants totaling nearly $135,000 were awarded to different providers to support program staff in making them healthier, happier, and more capable to work with individuals and families on their journey to recovery.
CT Fatherhood Initiative Summit

On June 1, 2023, The DMHAS Prevention and Health Promotion Division (PHP) partnered with the CT Fatherhood Initiative (CFI) and the Department of Social Services (DSS) to host the CT Fatherhood Summit at the Mystic Marriott in Groton. This event brought together leaders from the state legislature, agency commissioners, state department heads and staff, fatherhood program participants, youth service bureau and prevention coalition staff and fathers to learn about the work and goals of the CFI. Senator Sean Scanlon, DMHAS Commissioner Navarretta and DSS Commissioner Barton-Reeves opened the event with comments about the importance of fathers and how all of the people-serving work being done in the state should uniformly support men being fathers. Two keynote speakers, Abdul Muhammed (My People Clinical Services) and Shari Doherty (Child Find of America), shared their experiences and perspectives on celebrating and empowering families—in particular men—to be healthy and impactful dads. Diana DiTunno (DSS) offered an overview of the CFI’s strategic plan. Video testimonials from individuals commenting on their own fathers or being a father were recorded for the CFI’s “Dear Dads” project throughout the day as well.

The day sparked new connections and ideas for agencies and organizations to collaborate and further support fathers and families in our state. The Governor’s Prevention Partnership has scheduled Abdul Muhammed to conduct a workshop specifically for the Fatherhood Prevention staff. DMHAS Problem Gambling Services also will be working with the Fatherhood Prevention staff to provide information and resources. The Change the Script van as well as the multitude of resources offered by the CT Clearinghouse have also reached new audiences as the result of this summit.

If you would like more information on the CFI visit the Connecticut Fatherhood Initiative. If you have questions about prevention and fatherhood please contact Sarju Shah, PHP Director, at Sarju.Shah@ct.gov.
