PROPOSALS SOUGHT FOR RESIDENTIAL PERMIT ON STATE-OWNED FARMLAND IN SOUTHBURY

SOUTHBURY - The Connecticut Department of Agriculture is seeking agricultural permit proposals from interested farmers wishing to reside in a house located on the state-owned farm at the former Southbury Training School.

The house (pictured at right and below) is located at 2039 Purchase Brook Road and includes two bedrooms and one bathroom.

Residents will be responsible for maintenance of the house and sheds, as well as the .66-acre house lot and an adjoining .91-acre field.

The permit will be for a period of 12 months, with a four-year option to renew.

Applicants should specify a proposed monthly rate for use and occupancy of the house and house lot in their proposals.

An open house will be held on Wednesday, January 10 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. to allow prospective permittees to view the lot and the interior of the house.

Proposals must be emailed or submitted to the address below and postmarked by Friday, January 19.

The house lot must be kept in compliance with all state, federal and municipal laws and regulations, including but not limited to the proper storage and disposal of all trash, waste, manure, and spoiled feed.

The permittee will also be required to mow, shovel, snow plow, connect to and pay for all utilities and services for the house and house lot.

In addition, the permittee shall also be responsible for brush-hogging, mowing, and maintaining the adjacent .91 acre field.

The land is owned by the State of Connecticut, and is under the care, custody and control of the Department of Agriculture.

Proposals will be reviewed by the Agriculture Commissioner and an advisory committee. The submission of proposals will not be binding on the State of Connecticut, and does not constitute a competitive bid.

The Agriculture Commissioner reserves the right to reject any and all proposals not in the best interest of the State.

For a proposal form and packet, which includes photos of the house, and maps of the house lot and field, please call 860-713-2511 or email Lance.Shannon@ct.gov and provide your name, email or mailing address, and phone number.

Proposals should be emailed to Lance.Shannon@ct.gov or mailed to:
Resource Preservation Unit, Connecticut Department of Agriculture, The Farm at the Southbury Training School Residence Permit Proposal, 450 Columbus Boulevard, Suite 703, Hartford, CT 06103-1841

USDA CENSUS OF AGRICULTURE UNDERWAY, FARMERS URGED TO COMPLETE QUESTIONNAIRE

Many Connecticut farmers have recently received a 2017 Census of Agriculture questionnaire from the USDA National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS), and are urged to complete it promptly.

The Census is conducted every five years, and is the only complete count of U.S. farms and the people who operate them.

From small plots of urban and rural land to large farms with thousands of acres, the Census looks at land use and ownership, operator characteristics, production practices, and income and expenditures.

The data can be used to educate legislators, local officials and consumers about the importance of Connecticut agriculture to the state and local economies.

It also provides farmers an opportunity to decide if they'd like to expand or diversify their operations to fill a gap that may show in the trends.

There is no other source for detailed agricultural data, and NASS urges all farmers to accurately respond to the Census in order to provide accurate, timely data to the agricultural community.

The latest Census also contains new demographic questions that will better demonstrate who owns, runs and makes decisions for the farms in America.

After the last Census in 2012, NASS received feedback that the way it measured farm operators may not be fully capturing the role of women and new and beginning farmers.

“We ask for farmers to report all persons involved in making decisions for the farm, not just persons involved in day-to-day decisions,” said Ginger Harris, a demographics statistician with NASS.

“We used to ask detailed questions for up to three people per farm, but now they can report for up to four,” Harris added. “We removed the concept of principal operator from the form to better acknowledge that many farms operate with joint principals – husbands and wives may manage the farm together, or two brothers, or a father and daughter.”

The 2017 questionnaire also asks specific questions concerning decision-making on the farm and what kind of decisions each person is involved in.

It also asks for the first time whether a farmer is serving or has ever served in the military, which will allow USDA to measure the number of veterans who have taken up farming and develop programs to meet their needs.

NASS also is using a new Internet response tool for this year’s Census that saves time, calculates totals automatically, and skips questions not applicable to your operation.

FARMERS ENCOURAGED TO PARTICIPATE IN SURVEY OF NEEDS OF THE DISABLED IN THE AGRICULTURAL COMMUNITY

UConn Extension and the Dept. of Agriculture are seeking input from the agricultural community to gauge interest in a program that will support farmers and agricultural workers with disabilities.

Called Connecticut AgrAbility, the program will provide resources and opportunities for farmers and workers struggling to accomplish their daily farm tasks due to a wide spectrum of conditions such as physical injuries, aging-related conditions, arthritis, vision loss and mental health or behavioral issues.

AgrAbility is a national program headquartered at Purdue University that was created in 1991 and now has 26 states participating.

The link below will access a confidential 5-minute survey that will be used to assess the needs of the agricultural community and the interest in such a program. Please consider sharing the survey with five farmers to increase the response rate.

Questions may be directed to Mary Joaquin, Dept. of Agriculture, at 860-510-2452.
