Gender Specific for:MALE; RT Program Code: DC

Open Close:True, Session Group:False, Session Numbers: 6, Evidence Based:True

Description:

The Carl Robinson Debate team is both an educational, recreational and positive social skills development program tailored to the needs of incarcerated men at the facility. The program uses non-violent communication techniques to teach competitive public speaking, logical reasoning, debating as well as conflict resolution skills as part of the effort to ensure successful reentry upon release from incarceration. A critical component is to help members recognize differences of opinion on a range of issues by fostering a fundamental respect and appreciation for a wide range of perspectives. This is to ensure that issues are resolved in an engaging, intellectually stimulating, productive and peaceful manner. Members also learn to apply the sandwich method in offering feedback when critiquing the viewpoints of fellow members in our open sessions. This method has been known to be effective in helping debaters overcome the fear of public speaking, stage fright and ultimately building confidence and overall self-esteem.
