III. DEPARTMENT ANALYSIS

The department has jurisdiction over each person, association, limited liability company or corporation owning or operating a motor vehicle in livery service, pursuant to Connecticut General Statutes Section 13b-102, as amended.

In determining whether a livery permit should be granted, the department shall take into consideration the present or future public convenience and necessity. The applicant must prove that the public's convenience and necessity will be improved by the proposed service. Additionally, the applicant must show the suitability of the applicant or the suitability of the management if the applicant is a limited liability company or corporation, the financial responsibility of the applicant, the ability of the applicant efficiently and properly to perform the service for which authority is requested and the fitness, willingness and ability of the applicant to conform to the provisions of the statutes and the requirements and regulations of the department thereunder, in accordance with Connecticut General Statutes Section 13b-103.

In support of financial wherewithal the applicant has presented evidence that six months of start-up costs would equal $24,522. The applicant plans to purchase equipment for the business totaling between $655 to $855. The insurance will cost $8,399 annually. Gas will cost $360 per month, maintenance will cost $100 per month, rent and utilities is $300 per month, IT support will be $150 month and property tax will be $184 per month. The company will employ two people who will cost $16,800 or $2,800 per month. The applicant has $40,476 in the bank which is more than sufficient to handle the startup costs for the first six months. Based on the evidence presented, the applicant has proven the financial suitability to operate this livery service.

With regard to suitability, the applicant provided the requisite criminal conviction history for Mr. Rose which showed no convictions. The applicant has a public service license, has been an ambulance driver and a nurse. Mr. Rose is familiar with the rules and regulations for operating a livery business and is prepared to adhere to the rules and regulations. The applicant has a well thought out business plan and is suitable to operate the livery service.

The applicant must also prove that the service it proposes is needed in the community. The applicant presented the testimony of two witnesses in this matter. Both witnesses spoke about the need for a livery service of this type. Mr. Rose and his brother, both in the medical field, testified about the fact that patients often have to wait long times after their appointments to get transportation back to their residences, sometimes for hours.

Taking all of the factors into consideration, the applicant will be approved to operate one (1) livery vehicle in intrastate livery service.
