Update on Funding of 2012 Assistance Agreement

Paula Wilson asked about the start date for the 2012 assistance agreements. Mr. Landry explained the steps that must occur before the Assistance Agreements become effective and funds can be released for the 2012 grants. He noted that CI has to receive verifications and certification reports from the universities before the Assistance Agreements are sent to the universities. After further discussion on the issue, there was consensus that since the start date is somewhat dependent upon the universities providing information to CI and because of the new team members involved, the goal for the effective date should be October 15 but no later than November 1, 2012. There was also general consensus to try to work on shortening the time frame between the grant awards and receipt of the grant funds for the next round of funding. The time frame should be communicated to all of the universities.

Grant Review Process Evaluation

Mr. Strauss discussed the results of the evaluation of the grant review process. He indicated that input was provided by CASE, from the Peer Reviewers and from the Advisory Committee members. Mr. Strauss reviewed some of the recommendations made for next year’s process. One of the recommendations is to strengthen the orientation for the peer reviewers. Another recommendation is to focus the peer review assignments to specific grant categories depending on each peer reviewer’s expertise. Mr. Strauss discussed the need to include in the screening process for new peer reviewers a preference for researchers with experience in conducting reviews using the National Institutes of Health (“NIH”) criteria. He indicated that it is recommended that the two peer reviewers assigned to each proposed each conduct a “primary” review rather than the current process of having a “primary” and “secondary” review for each proposal. Mr. Strauss described other recommended changes to the peer review process, including the reconciliation process. He noted that the recommended reconciliation process, among other things, would include more written information about the differences in the scoring by the two peer reviewers. Mr. Strauss described recommended improvements to the Study Section review of the proposals for final scoring. He suggested that the peer review scores be extended to a 10 to 90 point scale rather than the 1 to 9 point scale to help further discriminate scores. Some concern was expressed that changing the point scale may not solve some of the problems with large discrepancies in the scoring between the two peer reviewers. It was noted that a written explanation or statement about the scoring from the peer reviewers will be helpful in understanding the scoring and reconciling the scores, and having two primary reviewers may also provide more consistency with the scoring.

There was general consensus that the grant review process was better than in past years as a result of CASE being involved; however, the Advisory Committee wants to strive to make the process even better for future years.

A suggestion was made to consider increasing the number of peer reviewers and using three reviewers for each proposal. Attorney Horn noted that the maximum number of peer reviewers is determined by statute. Another suggestion was made to consider using experts on ad hoc basis as needed.

Attorney Horn reviewed some additional comments received from the Advisory Committee members which are not provided to CASE before the evaluation report was prepared. She mentioned that a recommendation was made for the Advisory Committee not to spend much time reviewing the proposals that were scored the worst.

In response to a question, Mr. Strauss indicated that the Peer Review Committee was provided with a copy of the evaluation prepared by CASE for informational purposes.

Mr. Strauss explained some of the suggested changes for the next Request for Proposal (“RFP”). He suggested that the RFP request that applicants indicate if they have already received a Connecticut stem cell research grant. If so, the applicant should include specific information about the grant award. Mr. Strauss stated that the applicant should also indicate whether he/she has submitted any other proposals for the current proposal cycle. Additionally, applicants should clearly highlight any proprietary information that should not be publicly disclosed.

Mr. Strauss discussed recommendations related to the Advisory Committee. He talked about some of the benefits of having Advisory Committee members with conflicts remove themselves from the room when discussing his/her proposal. Mr. Strauss suggested that Advisory Committee members have access to all proposals as soon as they become available online to identify conflicts of interest early in the process. He also suggested that Advisory Committee members test computer systems for access to the documents so that any technical issues can be resolved in timely manner. CASE was complimented for the excellent review and recommendations.

A suggestion was made to provide the peer reviewers with a copy of the RFP so that they are aware of the Advisory Committee’s focus. Some concerns were expressed with providing the RFP to the peer reviewers since the focus of the peer reviewers should be to evaluate the science of the proposals.

Attorney Horn reported that three comments have been received appealing the decisions made at the June grant review meeting. She suggested forming a small ad hoc committee to determine whether an appeal process is necessary and to discuss how to deal with these types of issues. Attorney Horn summarized that two of the complaints were related to awards for proposals that received worse scores than others that did not get funded. The Advisory Committee members discussed the fact that award decisions are not based solely on the scientific merits of proposals and that there are other factors that are considered when making decisions on the grant awards.

Attorney Horn explained that another complaint was about the discrepancy in scoring by the two peer reviewers and one peer reviewer not agreeing with one of the institutions about a research integrity issue. She mentioned that the complainant requested that this issue be brought to the Advisory Committee for an independent review. It was noted that NIH has a formal appeals process. After further discussion on the issue, there was consensus to form an ad hoc committee to discuss whether an appeals process is needed. The ad hoc committee will consist of Attorney Horn, Dr. Hughes, Dr. Wallack and Mr. Strauss. The ad hoc committee will report back to the Advisory Committee with some recommendations/guidelines to potentially include in the next RFP.

Attorney Horn and Dr. Mullen noted the importance of the Advisory Committee members being as objective as possible and cautious with discussions on matters that could get misconstrued by others during these open and public meetings.
Next Steps

Ms. Leonardi discussed the importance of documenting the successes, the scientific merits and results of the program over the last six years. She spoke about the collaborative efforts of the universities as a result of the program. Ms. Leonardi asked for support and input from the Advisory Committee members and CASE with respect to the future of the program. There was general consensus that the scientific merits, successes and full explanation of the program should be conveyed in lay terms to the general public. The explanation should also include information on how the program started and has evolved and helped to leverage other funding. There was also consensus that the information/report should come from an independent source such as CASE. Ms. Leonardi will provide questions to the Advisory Committee members before the next meeting. A report/evaluation of the program to date should be completed before the end of the year and in time for the next legislative session. It was noted that strategic decisions will have to be made about legislation for the future of the program.

Attorney Horn reported that California is interested in working with Connecticut if possible (i.e. by sending people virtually to retreats and other workshops). It is anticipated that legislation will be presented at the next session to allow Connecticut to formally collaborate with other countries and states on stem cell research.

Public Comments

Paula Wilson invited the Advisory Committee members to attend the Yale Stem Cell Center annual retreat which will be held on October 19.

Adjournment:

MOTION: Upon a motion made by Dr. Wallack, seconded by Dr. Fishbone, the Advisory Committee members voted unanimously in favor of adjourning the meeting at 3:43 p.m.
