DWS Circular Letter #2012-02

To: Community Public Water Systems that have Emergency Contingency Plans pursuant to CGS Section 25-32d

From: Lori Mathieu, Public Health Section Chief
Drinking Water Section

Date: April 12, 2012

Subject: Review Stages of Response and Trigger Levels

In order to prepare for the possibility that you may need to enact your emergency contingency plan in the future due to the low precipitation, the Department of Public Health (DPH) is requesting that each Community Public Water System review its stages of response and trigger levels outlined in the existing plan. Please notify Robert Baran of my office at robert.baran@ct.gov when a drought stage trigger is imminent.

During this prolonged period of low precipitation, the State Interagency Drought Workgroup has been actively monitoring data and trends on emerging drought conditions. The workgroup meets as necessary to evaluate whether such conditions warrant state agencies to implement any elements of the Connecticut Drought Preparedness and Response Plan (www.ct.gov/waterstatus).

DPH is responsible to track and monitor public water systems' reservoir levels in addition to any reports from systems that have triggered a drought stage in their emergency contingency plans. Based upon the March 2012 data provided to DPH, most reservoir capacity levels were still at normal levels and there were no reports of any Community Public Water Systems triggering their emergency contingency plans. However, if dry conditions persist it is likely that more reservoir capacities will drop below normal levels.

If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact me directly via email at lori.mathieu@ct.gov or office phone at 860-509-7333. We thank you for your continued efforts to provide this critical information.
