

Summary of Requirements for Accommodating Special Diets in School Nutrition Programs

This document summarizes the requirements for meal modifications in the U.S. Department of Agriculture’s (USDA) school nutrition programs, which include the National School Lunch Program (NSLP), Afterschool Snack Program (ASP) of the NSLP, School Breakfast Program (SBP), Seamless Summer Option (SSO) of the NSLP, Special Milk Program (SMP), Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program (FFVP), and Child and Adult Care Food Program (CACFP) At-risk Supper Program implemented in schools. The USDA’s nondiscrimination regulations (7 CFR 15b) and regulations for the school nutrition programs (7 CFR 210.10\(m\) and 7 CFR 220.8\(m\)), require reasonable modifications for children whose disability restricts their diet, based on a written medical statement signed by a recognized medical authority.

Under the Americans with Disabilities \(ADA\) Amendments Act of 2008, most physical and mental impairments will constitute a disability. This includes conditions that impair immune, digestive, neurological, and bowel functions, as well as many others. A physical or mental impairment does not need to be life threatening to constitute a disability. Limiting a major life activity is sufficient. For example, a child whose digestion is impaired by a food intolerance (such as lactose intolerance) may be a person with a disability, regardless of whether consuming the food causes the child severe distress. All disability considerations must be reviewed on a case-by-case basis, i.e., specific to the individual medical condition and dietary needs of each child.

School food authorities (SFAs) may choose to make optional modifications (within the USDA’s meal patterns) for children whose dietary restrictions do not constitute a disability. Examples of optional modifications include requests related to religious or moral convictions, general health concerns, and personal food preferences, such as a family’s preference that their child eats a gluten-free diet or organic foods because they believe it is healthier. For information on the requirements for meal modifications, refer to the Connecticut State Department of Education’s (CSDE) guide, Accommodating Special Diets in School Nutrition Programs, and visit the CSDE’s Special Diets in School Nutrition Programs webpage.

- ¹ These examples of medical conditions are not all-inclusive and might not require meal modifications for all children. The determination of whether a child has a physical or mental impairment that restricts their diet must be made on a case-by-case basis, i.e., specific to the individual medical condition and dietary needs of each child.
- ² Recognized medical authorities include physicians, physician assistants, doctors of osteopathy, and advanced practice registered nurses (APRNs). The CSDE’s medical statement form, Medical Statement for Special Diets in School Nutrition Programs, is available in English and Spanish in the “Documents/Forms” section of the CSDE’s Special Diets in School Nutrition Program webpage.
- ³ SFAs are not required to obtain a separate medical statement if the child has an IEP or 504 plan that includes the same information required by the USDA, or if the required information is obtained during the development or review of the IEP or 504 plan.
- ⁴ SFAs are not required to make meal modifications for children whose dietary restrictions are based on individual food preferences that are not related to a disability, such as general health concerns and religious, ethnic, and moral reasons. SFAs may choose to make these optional modifications on a case-by-case basis. SFAs may also meet personal preference by offering multiple meal choices and implementing offer versus serve (OVS). All optional meal modifications must comply with the USDA’s meal patterns. For more information, visit the CSDE’s webpages, Meal Patterns for Grades K-12 in School Nutrition Programs, Meal Patterns for Preschoolers in School Nutrition Programs, and Offer versus Serve for School Nutrition Programs.
- ⁵ SFAs may choose to offer one or more allowable milk substitutes for children whose dietary needs do not constitute a disability. The two types of allowable substitutes include: 1) lactose-reduced or lactose-free milk with the appropriate fat content for each grade group, i.e., low-fat milk (unflavored or flavored) and fat-free milk (unflavored or flavored) for grades K-12; whole unflavored milk for age 1; and unflavored low-fat or fat-free milk for ages 2-4); and 2) nondairy milk substitutes that meet the USDA’s nutrition standards for fluid milk substitutes, such as certain brands of soy milk. Nondairy milk substitutes require a written request from a parent or guardian, but they do not require a medical statement. The written request must identify the dietary need that restricts the child’s diet, and the requested allowable milk substitute. For more information, refer to the CSDE’s resource, Allowable Milk Substitutes for Children without Disabilities in School Nutrition Programs.
