NASHVILLE, TN - The National Association of Secretaries of State (NASS) has inducted Connecticut Secretary of State Denise W. Merrill as president of the association, the nation's oldest nonpartisan professional organization for state officials. She will serve a one year-term ending in July 2017.

"I want to express deep appreciation to my state colleagues for their confidence in allowing me to lead this organization through an historic election cycle," said Merrill, who was sworn into office on July 17 at the NASS 2016 Summer Conference in Nashville, Tennessee. "I hope that my strong record of commitment to bipartisanship and effective governance will help guide NASS to continued success and growth."

Merrill has served as Connecticut's Secretary of State since 2011. As the state's chief elections official and business registrar, she has focused on modernizing Connecticut's elections and business services, as well as improving access to public records.

Merrill is only the second Connecticut official to lead NASS since its founding in 1904. Julia Tashjian held the president's post from 1989 to 1990. MORE

In 2013, she co-chaired the NASS Task Force on Emergency Preparedness for Elections, a coordinated effort by states to promote adoption of sound election practices for emergency conditions.
