ADVISORY COMMISSION ON INTERGOVERNMENTAL RELATIONS

November, 2021

To the Leaders of the Connecticut General Assembly:

In accordance with Connecticut General Statutes (CGS) Sec. 2-32c, as amended by Sec. 107 of PA 17-2 of the June Special Session and Sec. 3 of PA 19-193, the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations (ACIR) presents the attached list of new or expanded state mandates and mandate reductions arising from 2021's regular and special legislative sessions.

The statutory definition of mandate utilized in this listing includes actions that require a local government to create, expand or modify its activities in such a way as to necessitate additional expenditures from local revenues. Specifically excluded are legislation that do the same but are enacted to comply with federal mandates, as well as legislation required by court order.

There is no need to remind anyone reading this of how unusual the past two years' legislative sessions have been. While 2021 did not represent a return to normal, the General Assembly handled a more typical workload, even meeting remotely, but a significant amount of government activity continues to be accomplished under the terms of emergency executive orders issued by Governor Lamont, with the ACIR and others publishing executive order summaries and the ACIR also publishing best practices guidelines each focused on different municipal functions.

Last year's report highlighted how unusual that year had been and said it seemed pointless to compare the small number of mandates adopted that year to those in previous years. For instance, only four of the bills passed in 2020 included a section the ACIR considered to impose a new or increased mandate vs. twenty in 2019 and fourteen in the previous short session year of 2018. In 2021, thirty-one did. That greatly exceeds any recent year and one has to go back a decade or more, to 2011, when 41 bills included new or expanded mandates, or 2007, when 33 did, to find comparable numbers.

This report identifies an additional sixteen bills passed in 2021 that included one or more sections having the impact of a mandate, but not specifically directed at municipalities. There had been only three in 2020. Looking back to 2011 and 2007, the previously mentioned years having an unusually large number of mandates directed solely at municipalities, the numbers were 16 and 12, respectively. These mandates are identified as "Section C" mandates in the ACIR's separate mandates compendiums.

A long-standing objective of the ACIR has been to encourage mandate reductions that can lead to administrative and/or fiscal relief for municipalities. This report identifies seven bills passed in 2021 that did so, compared with zero in 2020. Five had done so in the previous long-session year of 2019 and eleven had in 2017.

One complicating factor regarding mandates passed in 2021 has been the General Assembly's move to codify practices begun under executive order in 2020 regarding voting, public meetings, electronic document submission, and other government operations. While prompted by the pandemic, some of the new practices are considered best practices elsewhere. Some will impose initial costs but offer longer term savings and improvements in government operations. June Special Session PA 21-2 includes a number of such provisions for which the authorization runs through the November elections or through April 30, 2022, signaling the General Assembly's expectation to revisit this in its 2022 session. Sec. 154 of that act charges the ACIR with conducting a study of such practices for the longer term, signaling the General Assembly's expectation to take those up in the 2022 session:

Sec. 154. (Effective from passage) The Connecticut Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations established pursuant to section 2-79a of the general statutes, shall, in consultation with the Freedom of Information Commission established pursuant to section 1-205 of the general statutes, the Connecticut Association of Municipal Attorneys and the Chief Information Officer or the Chief Information Officer's designee, conduct a study concerning the implementation of the provisions of section 149 of this act, and the feasibility of remote participation and voting during meetings, including remote voting using electronic equipment such as conference call, videoconference or other technology. Not later than February 1, 2022, the commission shall submit a report, in accordance with the provisions of section 11-4a of the general statutes, to the joint standing committees of the General Assembly having cognizance of matters relating to government administration and planning and development. Such report shall include, but need not be limited to, (1) findings, including any challenges encountered, (2) recommendations concerning best practices for the implementation of said provisions, (3) an analysis of the feasibility of remote participation and voting during meetings using electronic equipment such as conference call, videoconference or other technology, and (4) the identification of funding sources for the implementation of remote participation and voting during meetings using such electronic equipment.

The ACIR expects there will be a more rigorous consideration of benefits and of costs during the course of that study and the legislative session that follows. Next year's edition of this report is expected to provide a more thorough analysis than is included in this year's report.

In presenting this report, the ACIR points out that it is common for a single public act to include multiple sections imposing mandates or some imposing mandates and others providing mandate relief. The list of bills was developed by ACIR staff and, while the ACIR believes it identifies all acts that increased or reduced the burden of mandates on municipalities in 2021, The ACIR welcomes input from others regarding any sections of public acts that should be added or excluded.

In addition to the listing of the bills as required in the statute, this report provides several additional pieces of information to assist the General Assembly in reviewing this report.:

Mandate Description - A short explanation of those portions of the bill which meet the mandate definition.

Committee(s) Reviewing Bill - A listing, beginning with the Committee of Cognizance, of all committees which considered the bill.

Office of Fiscal Analysis (OFA) Fiscal Impact Statement - The statements, if any, used by OFA to characterize the municipal fiscal impact of the mandate.

No matter how worthwhile, each mandate imposes a burden on municipalities. The legislature's Office of Fiscal Analysis as well as municipalities, school districts and organizations representing them routinely call attention to many proposed mandates during the legislative session. Some mandates, on the other hand, impose only a small burden individually and often attract little attention as focus is drawn to larger concerns. Multiple small mandates, however, can have a substantial cumulative impact, creating a hidden burden on municipalities and municipal officials.

Mandates can be as small as a requirement for a municipal official to send a document by mail. Mandate relief can be as small as an amendment allowing the alternative of sending it by email. June Special Session PA 21-2 contains a number of sections authorizing or specifying forms of electronic communication by municipalities. Some might result in an immediate cost or savings and, in the future, could impose a continuing cost or provide continuing savings. Given advances in technology and the uncertain magnitude and direction of the impact of many of those changes, the ACIR is not attempting to identify each of those as an increase in or a reduction to a mandate.

The ACIR urges the General Assembly to consider the impact of state mandates on local governments. State mandates represent the establishment of priorities and constraints for an individual city or town by officials representing other cities and towns. To the extent these mandates are unfunded or underfunded, such decisions can create an obligation for municipalities to raise additional funds or to change spending priorities from those that would reflect the will of the local community. Similar consideration should be also be given when enacting mandates that are funded at the onset, but whose funding might be reduced or discontinued in future years.

While highlighting new or increased mandates resulting from 2021's regular and special sessions, this list of mandates should not be considered a list of bad legislation. Pointing out the potential cost of a mandate does not deny the expected benefits; the ACIR just believes costs should be recognized. One example is a new mandate identified in PA 21-92, which the ACIR has flagged as a mandate with this description:

Sec. 1 requires public and private schools to consult with emergency medical service providers and allied health professionals and develop and implement an emergency sports-related injury action plan and to update, rehearse, and distribute the plan as specified.

The ACIR is unaware of any opposition to PA 21-92; no one offered testimony opposing it in the committee hearing and no one voted against it in committee or in either house. The legislature's Office of Fiscal Analysis (OFA) reported that there will be no impact and explained:

The bill requires local and regional school districts to conduct various procedural tasks related to emergency action plans to respond to serious and life-threatening sports-related injuries during interscholastic or intramural athletic events. Local and regional school districts have the staff and resources necessary to complete the procedural tasks outlined in the bill.

It is not uncommon for the ACIR to identify a mandate in legislation for which the OFA reported no mandate. The ACIR is not criticizing the work of the OFA, which must operate under often daunting time constraints, but the ACIR believes that imposing additional requirements on local officials imposes a cost even if they can be handled without increasing the local budget. Staff time and local resources dedicated to a new task are no longer available for other current or future tasks.

Given the nature of PA 21-92 and the apparent lack of opposition, it appears that its benefits outweigh its cost to municipalities, but it is not clear that the legislative process provides legislators with all they might need to determine that.

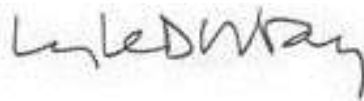

ACIR mandate reports have long pointed out that, from a legal and from a practical standpoint, it is appropriate for the state to impose some level of requirements on municipalities. Legally, under the 1965 Constitution, municipalities conduct their business under a limited delegation of authority by the state. Practically, many governmental functions are intended to meet statewide expectations or to promote statewide uniformity but are best administered at a more local scale. Government functions affected range from finance to land use to public safety to education administration and beyond. The details of such requirements and responsibility for the resulting costs will continue to be the subjects of much debate.

(a) As used in this section:

(1) "Local government" means any political subdivision of the state having power to make appropriations or to levy taxes, including any town, city or borough, consolidated town and city or consolidated town and borough, any village, any school, sewer, fire, water or lighting district, metropolitan district, any municipal district, any beach or improvement association, and any other district or association created by any special act or pursuant to chapter 105, or any other municipal corporation having the power to issue bonds;

(2) "State mandate" means any constitutional, statutory or executive action that requires a local government to establish, expand or modify its activities in such a way as to necessitate additional expenditures from local revenues, excluding any order issued by a state court and any legislation necessary to comply with a federal mandate;

(3) "Local government organization and structure mandate" means a state mandate concerning such matters as: (A) The form of local government and the adoption and revision of statutes on the organization of local government; (B) the establishment of districts, councils of governments, or other forms and structures for interlocal cooperation and coordination; (C) the holding of local elections; (D) the designation of public officers, and their duties, powers and responsibilities and (E) the prescription of administrative practices and procedures for local governing bodies;

(4) "Due process mandate" means a state mandate concerning such matters as: (A) The administration of justice; (B) notification and conduct of public hearings; (C) procedures for administrative and judicial review of actions taken by local governing bodies and (D) protection of the public from malfeasance, misfeasance, or nonfeasance by local government officials;

(5) "Benefit spillover" means the process of accrual of social or other benefits from a governmental service to jurisdictions adjacent to or beyond the jurisdiction providing the service;

(6) "Service mandate" means a state mandate as to creation or expansion of governmental services or delivery standards therefor and those applicable to services having substantial benefit spillover and consequently being wider than local concern. For purposes of this section, applicable services include but are not limited to elementary and secondary education, community colleges, public health, hospitals, public assistance, air pollution control, water pollution control and solid waste treatment and disposal. A state mandate that expands the duties of a public official by requiring the provision of additional services is a "service mandate" rather than a "local government organization and structure mandate";

(7) "Interlocal equity mandate" means a state mandate requiring local governments to act so as to benefit other local governments or to refrain from acting to avoid injury to, or conflict with neighboring jurisdictions, including such matters as land use regulations, tax assessment procedures for equalization purposes and environmental standards;

(8) "Tax exemption mandate" means a state mandate that exempts privately owned property or other specified items from the local tax base;

(9) "Personnel mandate" means a state mandate concerning or affecting local government: (A) Salaries and wages; (B) employee qualifications and training except when any civil service commission, professional licensing board, or personnel board or agency established by state law sets and administers standards relative to merit-based recruitment or candidates for employment or conducts and grades examinations and rates candidates in order of their relative excellence for purposes of making appointments or promotions to positions in the competitive division of the classified service of the public employer served by such commission, board or agency; (C) hours, location of employment, and other working conditions and (D) fringe benefits including insurance, health, medical care, retirement and other benefits.
