RE: Conditions of Parole and Internet Access

Effective November 28, 2023, any release conditions which restrict access to the internet and social media are no longer in effect. Any prior conflicting "Computer Access Agreements" or release conditions restricting access to the internet or social media are void and unenforceable.

You may, however, still be subject to the following if you meet certain criteria outlined in Attachment A:

- 1) monitoring of your internet and electronic device usage
- 2) restrictions on your access to pornography, and
- 3) restrictions on your ability to contact minors.

If appropriate and you meet these criteria, these restrictions will appear on your conditions of release. Please contact your parole officer if you have questions or concerns.
