VII. DIVISION REPORTS

Executive Director's Report

Director Hughes informed that she and her staff had been diligently meeting with various departments across the state including the Department of Labor, EEO, HR, OLR, OAG, and BITS. She further informed that the agency's technical adjustment request was submitted reflecting the reclassifications, promotions, and retirements.

She added that the agency is on target to meet the implementation schedule of the disparity study and offered kudos to Attorney Spencer Hill and Attorney Darcey Jones Strand for their leadership.

She further reported that Attorney Jonathan Sykes, who leads the agency's technical team, is working on automation efforts to implement AI Co-pilot licensing. There have also been some updates to the EEOC and HUD contracts. The agency, she continued, is waiting for finalization of the contracts in order to submit for the vouchers.

Outreach Report

Deputy Executive Cheryl Sharp took a moment to congratulate Executive Director Hughes on her reappointment. She also congratulated Attorney Robin Fox on her upcoming retirement and noted the retirement of CHRO Investigator, Ann Galer, effective October 1.

She went on to report that the agency continues to be busy, is still involved, and utilizes social media at every opportunity via posts from the DEI committee and Outreach representative Anthony Pragano.

She reported that the CHRO would be hosting its first ever Youth Law Summit to be held at UConn Law School with hundreds of students registered to participate. She announced a need for volunteers from the legal field to help facilitate the Summit. Attorneys, judges, social justice activists, investigators, and all other interested parties are encouraged to volunteer.

The Summer Internship Program was recently concluded. Their final project was the symposium on immigration. She gave kudos to the interns for a job well done. The fall student intern program has started with four new executive interns coming on board. She added that one of the "star students," who had been participating in Kids Court Academy and later as an intern, was off to Harvard University.

She added that the CHRO is heavily involved with many organizations and boards throughout the state and provides information about the services offered by the agency.

In conclusion, Director Sharp reported on the agency's recruitment efforts and the need to work with the Department of Labor movement is underway to refill vacant positions. She also informed that the agency-wide meeting was scheduled for December 4th and would again be held at the Artist Collective.

Legislative Update

Legislative Liaison Darcy Strand reported that there is an internal agency group that is working on making sure all is ready for the October 1 effective date of the recommendations of the disparity study Bill. The group is working to automate and revise the forms used by the CHRO Contract Compliance Unit, establish new procedures and guidelines and reach out to stakeholders to make them aware of the new laws and forms.

She further reported that a new database for the Affirmative Action Plans is underway and will lead to streamlining of the Plan process.

Legal Update

Managing Legal Director Kimberly Jacobsen reported on two cases where final decisions were issued as the appeal period has concluded. The first case is an administrative appeal dealing with employment discrimination that was investigated and was ultimately dismissed for no reasonable cause. According to Connecticut General Statute 4-183 the complainant had 45 days to appeal the decision. Unfortunately, the complainant waited more than 45 days to appeal and missed the window of opportunity. The Superior Court dismissed the case because of the late filing.

The second case was at its final stage within the Office of Public Hearing. It was a housing discrimination case found to have reasonable cause. Prosecution had been deferred to the complainant's attorney, but the attorney withdrew from the case. The complainant could have gotten another attorney or the CHRO would have put on the case. However, the complainant failed to show up at both the status conference hearing and the public hearing. As a result of the complainant failing to appear at the two conferences/hearings the case was dismissed.
