TEACHING TOOLS

With school across CT closed due to the pandemic, families are staying safe at home with their children. One of the opportunities this presents families is the chance to keep their children learning at home.

There are many online resources that DCF staff can suggest for parents and caretakers. One option is provided by Scholastic, the publisher of children's books.

When checking in with families, you might suggest to them that they check this out and share some learning time with their children!
