Questions

Welcome and Introductions

Why is the CRPP Credential Important?

This newly created Certified Recovery Peer Professional (CRPP) credential is an integrated certification that ensures individuals trained by any of the DMHAS-approved Peer Training Organizations have been taught SAMHSA's Twelve Core Competencies and DMHAS' Peer Ethics and Values (2024) to be in alignment with national standards.

Validates and enhances professional development.

Strengthens the peer recovery community by creating a unified standard.

Developing the CRPP Grandparenting Certification

A. Peer Certification Advisory Committee

- Developed the Connecticut Recovery Peer Professionals Code of Ethics and Values
- Recommended Grandparenting CRPP requirements

B. Subject Matter Expert (SME) Committee

- Responsible for developing CRPP exam with the CCB

C. Peer Cert Planning Committee (DMHAS, PRCH, CCB)

D. Certified Review Team

Connecticut CRPP Code of Ethics and Values (2024) Part I

1. Certified Recovery Peer Professionals will share their recovery/lived experience stories to promote and support recovery, hope, and resilience to help the people they serve (as appropriate to the situation).
2. Certified Recovery Peer Professionals shall strive to practice cultural humility, defined as an ongoing process of self-exploration and self-critique, combined with a lifelong willingness to learn from others, including learning about cultural identity and other areas important to the people they serve.
3. Certified Recovery Peer Professionals will keep current with emerging knowledge relevant to recovery peer support and advocacy and share this knowledge with their colleagues and the people they serve.
4. Certified Recovery Peer Professionals shall agree to engage in regular peer support supervision and professional development.
5. Certified Recovery Peer Professionals will respect the dignity, privacy, confidentiality, and rights of the people they serve, and will adhere to federal and state confidentiality and privacy laws (e.g. HIPAA) which apply to oral, written and electronic communication (social media, texting, video conferencing).

Connecticut CRPP Code of Ethics and Values (2024) Part II

6. Recovery Peer Professionals will not practice, condone, facilitate, or collaborate in any form of discrimination based on ethnicity, race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, political belief, mental or physical disability, or any other preference or personal characteristic, condition, or state.
7. Certified Recovery Peer Professionals will advocate for those that they serve to make their own decisions. Certified Recovery Peer Professionals will advocate for individuals to achieve their own stated needs, wants, and goals as well as promote personal responsibility of individuals.
8. Certified Recovery Peer Professionals will advocate for the full participation and inclusion of individuals into the communities of their choice and will promote the inherent value of these individuals to those communities.
9. Certified Recovery Peer Professionals will avoid entering dual relationships or commitments that conflict with the interests of those they are serving and will disclose those relationships to their immediate supervisor [Dual relationships are defined as any existing or pre-existing professional, social, or business relationships with the person(s) served]. In consultation with their professional supervisor, the Certified Peer Professional shall determine whether existing or pre-existing relationships interfere with their ability to provide peer support services to the person(s) served.
10. Certified Recovery Peer Professionals should not engage in sexual or intimate activities or relations with the people they are serving.
