

Webinar: Connecticut Urban and Small Scale Agriculture: Grant Readiness and Business Plans

For: Stakeholders in agriculture, urban agriculture, food-related community-based organizations and NGO's, food producers, new farmers

Please join us for a for a workshop on resources to turn to in creating your farm business plan and other essential items needed to prepare for grant applications.

We will discuss opportunities to grow, develop and begin farming in urban and suburban areas in Connecticut; so if you are a farmer, have a dream of someday farming, or if you are a nonprofit that supports food production in Connecticut, we invite you to join us for these interesting and informative webinars.

This is the second in a series with additional planned around topics such as grant writing specific to urban agriculture, technical support and market access, training and best practices. Webinars will be recorded and available following the session. Each webinar will have time for questions and answers.

Wednesday, March 30, 2022 | 7:00 pm to 8:15 pm EDT

Session Includes:

Welcome and Introductions:

Connecticut Department of Agriculture

Grant Readiness with AliRose Grabarz of the CT Department of Agriculture

Business Plans with Will O'Meara of Hungry Reaper Farm, Land For Good, and New CT Farmer Alliance

One-on-One Business Planning Assistance and Resources with Amanda Chang, Outreach Coordinator for the Carrot Project

Questions and Answers

