Compendium Program: Change Unit

Gender Specific for:MALE

Description:

The objective of the Change Unit is threefold. First to increase offenders overall personal responsibility, for their choices that led to their present incarceration and the past choices that continue to cause problems in their life. Secondly, offenders explore how their continued use of alcohol and/or drugs has influenced their decision making and consequences. They are encouraged to survey how changing their thinking around substances will change the way they feel; promoting a change in behavior(s). Lastly, participants examine abstinence from all addictive substances as a way to prevent future arrests and to better meet the challenges and opportunities that await them upon their release. CHANGE Unit participants include a COMMUNITY where offenders focus on change, make better choices, practice recovery skills and altering thinking patterns to promote growth. Staff assist offenders in the process, using available resources/support. Offenders provide support to one another by embracing the therapeutic community framework of the unit. Successful community reintegration, reduced recidivism are best achieved by a team effort. Together, we can attain the success that offenders envision for themselves. Our community is made up of a diverse population that is willing to put forth a concerted effort to invest in themselves and the therapeutic community.
