INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this handbook is to provide basic information about the roles and opportunities available for Volunteers, Interns and Professional Partners (VIPs) with the Connecticut Department of Correction.

This handbook presents the mission of the Department, a review of appropriate conduct for citizen involvement, general security information with a listing and map to locate our facilities.

While this information is not intended to answer every question concerning responsibility and commitment, this handbook addresses those areas of interest most expressed by past and present VIPs.

It is important for you to read this handbook carefully and to use it as a reference guide. If specific questions or issues arise which are not covered, you may speak with the Supervisor of the VIP Unit or any one of our designated facility or parole VIP Coordinators.

Please note that the Department of Correction reserves the right to remove or deny a VIP access to an institution without provocation or cause.

Volunteering for the Connecticut Department of Correction is a Privilege
Not a Right.

We will make every effort to inform you of policies, program changes and opportunities.

We trust that your involvement with the Department of Correction will support staff and offender services, and that your experiences will be personally or professionally rewarding.

Connecticut Department of Correction

VISION and MISSION STATEMENT

Vision: Re-victimization is reduced by providing offenders the tools and resources to make positive changes for a successful transition back into the community.

Mission: The Department of Correction shall strive to be a global leader in progressive correctional practices and partnered re-entry initiatives to support responsive evidence-based practices aligned to law-abiding and accountable behaviors. Safety and security shall be a priority component of this responsibility as it pertains to staff, victims, citizens and offenders.

Guiding Principles

- ✓ Appropriate and proper assessment of every incoming offender
- ✓ Individualized programming, education and job training for offenders
- ✓ Shared economic, community, social and collaborative partnerships
- ✓ Research and best practices

To complement the overall mission of the Department of Correction, the VIP Services Unit continuously seeks Volunteers, Interns and Professional Partners (VIPs) to supplement or augment opportunities for offenders to participate in recovery, restorative and re-entry preparation activities while incarcerated or participating in a continuum of care through parole.

The VIP Services Unit currently offers a wide variety of opportunities for approved Volunteers, Interns and Professional Partners to support agency staff in the provision of:

- Addiction Services
- Chaplaincy Services
- Education/Programming Services

The Goals of the VIP Unit are to:

- Develop a welcoming climate for Volunteers, Interns and Professional Partners
- Establish standards and guidelines for organization and administration
- Provide insight, information and technical assistance to develop activities
- Recruit, train and supervise program staff working with Volunteers, Interns and Professional Partners
- Plan and implement the orderly expansion of resources
- Serve as a liaison to other public and private agencies
- Provide information to the general public about VIP Services

CITIZEN INVOLVEMENT IN CORRECTIONS

Volunteers, Interns and Professional Partners in Corrections:

- Assist staff
- Coordinate specific activities, programs and opportunities
- Facilitate offender recovery, restoration and re-entry into the community
- Build bridges between the DOC and communities
- Enrich opportunities for offender/victim aid and restoration

VIP Programs and Services broaden and enhance the work done by corrections staff. VIPs strengthen formal treatment programs, supplement education and assist in reducing recidivism. Individuals contribute in varied areas such as:

- Developing offenders' decision-making or problem-solving skills
- Preparing for GED exams
- Organizing educational seminars
- Supporting art workshops
- Coaching sports or facilitating fitness/wellness activities
- Supporting religious services and serving as role models for 12-Step substance abuse groups

While this list is not complete, it illustrates that VIPs serve as a key component in our effort to help offenders make choices that may result in more effective community re-integration or greater success in handling long term incarceration.

AS YOU BEGIN

As you prepare for working with DOC staff you need to examine the opportunities available, listed on our website.

Once you have filled out a VIP Application Form and completed the screening process (background check), you will need to attend a VIP Safety and Security/PREA (Prison Rape Elimination Act) Orientation before you are fully authorized to contribute your time to a facility or community-based program.

The Safety and Security/PREA Orientation will include a site sensitization (tour of the facility). You will be given information regarding the Department, its policies and procedures, offenders, rules and regulations, information about dress code, expected behavior and general assistance to help you adjust to conditions within a restrictive environment.

Safety and Security/PREA Orientation is provided to help VIPs better understand and manage risk that is inherent in working with people incarcerated or being supervised because of criminal activities. This training will enable you to function effectively within an institutional or restrictive environment. You will learn:

- The rules and why it's important not to compromise rules and regulations
- How to contact your designated Volunteer Coordinator
- Policies, procedures, and proper protocols to interact responsibly
- The importance of proper appearance, hygiene and good health
- Contraband and why VIPs are strictly prohibited from bringing them in. Contraband is identified as any items that are not authorized, such as:

- Electronic Equipment
- Cell Phones/Smart watches
- Cameras
- CDs/DVDs
- Laptops/Tablets
- And any other items that can jeopardize safety/security
- The giving of books, gifts, tokens and personal relationships is strictly prohibited
- Personal confidentially (not sharing last names, addresses, phone numbers or other personal information) is essential
- Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) and how to make your best effort to
 - Detect
 - Refer for staff investigation
 - Prevent sexual misconduct

You will continuously be reminded that if you are unsure of what course of action to take, not to hesitate to ask DOC staff/supervisor for guidance. .

TRAINING/ORIENTATION

The Department of Correction requires that you attend in-service training sessions and annual conference(s). These training sessions will provide the information, techniques and skills necessary to work confidently and successfully with the offender population. Your willingness to share your time and abilities, which are invaluable, affect the lives of those who are incarcerated and supports the Department's goal to reduce criminality and recidivism.

GENERAL SUGGESTIONS

VIPs are expected to use good judgment when confronted with a new or unusual situation within the correctional system. When there is any doubt as to a course of action, you should consult with your Volunteer/Program Coordinator or in their absence the facility Shift Supervisor.

The primary responsibility of correctional employees is to provide for the safety of fellow staff, guests, and the safe custody of offenders.

As a VIP you must assist in this endeavor by reporting any action or condition which could compromise that responsibility; for example, information about offenders' behaviors/actions that could lead to escape, riot, suicide, sexual misconduct or damage to individuals or property.

To access correctional facilities,
all persons must be able to clear
a metal detector.

PREA Standards

V.I.P. Prison Rape Elimination Act Training

For CT-DOC Volunteers, Interns and Professional Partners (VIP's), including Contractors and Researchers

On September '03 the Prison Rape Elimination Act (P.R.E.A.) was signed into law by Congress. P.R.E.A. standards were developed to curb prison sexual misconduct throughout the nation. Since its enactment, all Federal, State & Local correctional facilities are required to develop and promote "zero-tolerance" policies regarding sexual violence. This Law was followed by the development of standards for all staff, volunteers, contractors and offenders.

Prevention of sexual misconduct continues to be a top priority of everyone involved with the CT Department of Correction. Consequently, your review of this Handout and your awareness and compliance to three standards pertaining to VIP's will join all of us together to help eliminate the risk and incidence of sexual misconduct in any facility or contracted correctional component.

The three established P.R.E.A. Standards designed for Volunteers, Interns & Professional Partners (Contractors & Researchers inclusive) include:

- 1) Training to detect sexual misconduct;
- 2) Reporting of any alleged incident of sexual violence or misconduct;
- 3) Follow up with any investigation.

By reading this Handout you are agreeing to work with us towards the goals of eliminating all sexual misconduct and violence in institutions/centers.

The key to implementing these standards is for you to understand the importance of using your best ability to discern, detect, and report observation, alleged behavior or witnessed act of a sexual harassment, misconduct or abuse offenders, visitors, employees, contractors or other VIP's. As you already know, it is the responsibility of all VIP's to maintain professional boundaries and to assist staff as joint supervisors of offenders participating in authorized voluntary/elective activities.

To provide you with a better understanding of the importance of these standards, please read the excerpts below:

“The facts are appalling. The Bureau of Justice Statistics has found that in 2011 alone, some 200,000 people were sexually victimized in the American prison system. The Prison Rape Elimination Act, passed in ‘03 provides for training all correctional staff, offenders, volunteers and contractors to eliminate risks and protect everyone involved in prison/jail programming from the sexual misconduct.

Real change will only happen if we come together to better understand prison rape in the context in which any rape, anywhere, must be seen.

Sexual misconduct including rape is never about sex; it is about power and control. Rape is a tool, a weapon, a means of communication. Rapists are telling themselves and their victims who's in charge, and whose body is forfeit.

For most rapists, of course, the power and control are fleeting. The prisoner who attacks is still, after all, in prison. Power is never complete — yet in that moment in which they choose to rape, rapists seek to use another person's body to proclaim they have some small measure of it. The victim is a delivery mechanism for the rapist's message.

Rape is psychological warfare. In a sudden, violent moment an individual can be attacked, traumatized and lose faith and self-dignity in a single horrific experience. The victim is often left shattered and hopeless. It's important to realize that survivors' reactions are deeply personal, and absolutely not contingent on the message their attackers may have intended to send. Survivors need to know : “The assault does not define them.”

Each moment and each person and each event is individual and complex — but the act, the act itself, the act of using another person's body for is simply about power and control wherever and however it happens.

The need to genuinely address the reality of sexual misconduct and prevent rape in our prisons is acute. We cannot idly abide the tortures to which some offenders are regularly subjected.

Prison rape exists on a continuum that winds its way through our streets and our schools and our homes and our workplaces; only when we begin to recognize and champion respect and the protection of all people, especially offenders, no matter their gender, place in the hierarchy, or time served, will we begin to truly free ourselves of its evil.

Tips for detection of sexual misconduct and reporting to staff:

- Be observant at all times.
- Look at body posture, personal hygiene, note any differences in how any individual is interacting with you or others.
- If you “sense” a problem or issue, ask how a person “feels”.

- Listen to responses carefully.
- Hear what is being said and how it sounds.
- Look carefully for bruises.
- If you get a sense of hopelessness or hear anxiety, confusion or suicidal ideation –these are clear indicators of something wrong.
- Report what you become aware of immediately to any staff as soon as possible
- If staff determine that further investigation is necessary, remember to write down what you think/know as fully and clearly as you can.

Per PREA standard 115.77: Any VIP-Volunteer, Intern or Professional Partner, including Contractors and Researchers who engages in sexual abuse shall be prohibited from contact with offenders and shall be reported to law enforcement agencies, unless the activity was clearly not criminal, and to relevant licensing bodies.

Anyone who engages in, fails to report, or knowingly condones sexual harassment or sexual abuse of an inmate shall be subject to disciplinary action and may be subject to criminal prosecution.

SECURITY MATTERS

Appearance:

Keep your appearance or dress simple and appropriate to the correctional environment. Pocket books and knotted ties are not allowed. Don't wear short skirts, shorts or any other clothing that exposes or accentuates body parts. Remove excessive jewelry. If you wear a tie, clip-ons (pull-offs) are practical (subject to approval per facility.)

Prohibited clothing includes:

- Any clothing that closely resembles offender, staff, military uniforms or camouflage clothing
- Any items that cover the face including hats and hoodies (masks during COVID are mandatory)
- Any clothing that exposes the midriff, back, shoulders, cleavage, thighs or other excessive skin
- Tight clothing such as spandex, leggings, tube tops, or tank tops
- Sheer or see-through clothing
- Clothing containing offensive language or images, or political content.
- No Smart Watches of any kind, facial piercings or hoop earrings

Professionalism:

Appearance, conduct, language and attitude reflect the character and integrity of the individual. Demonstrate professionalism and you will gain respect from everyone. Know your program. Know your boundaries. Treat everyone equally. Follow staff direction and be respectful to staff. Treat offenders humanely and with respect.

Personal Parameters and Boundaries:

Always address staff using formal titles, for example: Warden; Sir; Officer; Mr./Ms.; or Mrs., Captain, Lieutenant. Staff always go by last name and should never be addressed by their first name due to safety and security. You should not befriend any offender, Rather, act as an aide, assisting offenders to learn ways to help themselves. Never give out phone numbers, addresses, email address, or personal information for yourself or any staff. Absolutely nothing should be taken in or out of an institution without specific permission from the administration. Safety and security is everyone's priority. Do not contact offenders or their representatives (including family, attorney, friends, etc.) outside of the institution, unless authorized and/or supervised by DOC staff.

Contraband:

Anything not provided or specifically authorized by the institution is considered contraband or forbidden goods. Any items not specifically authorized will be confiscated. This rule is for the safety and security of everyone. Giving any item to an offender without permission will result in your dismissal and disciplinary action including loss of privileges for the offender(s).

Inappropriate Conduct:

Some offenders may demonstrate a strong need for affection. Many offenders may view your expression of concern or ongoing participation in a program as a friendship or romantic signal.

Should you sense an inappropriate relationship building, you should report it immediately. If you continue developing a personal relationship, your VIP privileges will be terminated.

Bending the Rules:

Many offenders have become experts at storytelling. Problems do occur. These situations are best handled by staff. Do not allow your integrity or purpose to be compromised. No favors should be accepted. Any compliments should be deflected.

- Do not let anyone convince you to mail letters.
- Do not let anyone convince you to carry correspondence between offenders in the same or different institutions.
- Do not let anyone convince you to bring packages from "families" in/out of institutions.
- Do not add money to offenders' accounts or setup or participate in an offender's GoFundMe or any other account.

Not all offenders are manipulative. One of the best ways not to get manipulated is never to say or do anything you would not want to be made public information.

Management of Aggressive Behavior:

If an offender becomes hostile, the best advice is to back off and remain calm. If alone, gradually move to where staff can see you. Correctional staff will handle difficult situations. Remember that offenders have been convicted or have pending charges for criminal offenses. Physical intimidation and violence are a common occurrence for some. If any offender is hostile towards others, assaults staff or threatens any VIP, seek staff assistance immediately.

Emergency Procedures/Communications:

If you hear a fire alarm sound, you will be expected to evacuate the area in accordance with posted emergency exit procedures. Listen to staff as they may direct you to another area. If the fire is in the immediate vicinity, you should communicate the problem to staff and depart the area. Always make sure you have signed into the facility properly. It is also your responsibility to view and understand the emergency evacuation plan in your assigned area.

Follow all instructions given by staff. Each facility has a "Control Center" that can be reached by dialing a designated emergency code number. Just tell the Officer where and what the problem is. If you find that it would be impractical to attempt to actually talk on the phone, then by simply knocking the receiver off the hook, the Control Center Officer may be able to identify the location of the problem and send staff to the scene without further action. If you receive a Body Alarm, be sure staff instruct you for the proper use.

Critical Incidents:

In the event that an incident happens and you are in a dangerous situation, the best advice is to stay put until staff secures the area. Don't act instinctively, heroes can get hurt. Be cooperative with the antagonist. Take cover and hide if possible. Keep a low profile. Don't judge, condemn or provoke. Do not make any threats or attempt to negotiate. Act naturally. Listen carefully. Be quietly observant and document what was witnessed as quickly after the incident as possible. Seek counseling when it is over. No one should have to be alone after an incident. Make sure you seek out your Volunteer/Program Coordinator and discuss what to do in an emergency.

Gangs and Security Risk Groups:

Offenders have utilized programs and activities to conduct gang business. Gang activity, such as displays of color, hand signals, and exchanging personal notes should be reported to a Supervisor. Gang activities can result in people being hurt. If you witness any suspected gang activity, be sure not to react directly. Do not do or say anything that might compromise your safety. Be discreet! When you are safely apart from all offender contact, report what you saw or heard directly to the Shift supervisor or staff.

Infectious Diseases:

It is important to realize that the Department makes every effort possible to control infectious diseases, including HIV, TB, Hepatitis MRSA, the Ebola Virus, COVID-19, and others. Every visitor should exercise caution because viruses, germs and contagious infections may spread quickly in institutional settings. A good rule of conduct is to presume that your health and wellbeing, and that of others, requires continuous attention and respect. Stay home if you are feeling ill. Contact your VIP Coordinator, Program Supervisor or Group Leader to let staff know you are sick and unable to fulfill your commitment. Everyone will be appreciative and understand.

Virtual Groups:

- Must be located in a secure location that supports confidentiality
- No visitors allowed to observe, listen to or participate
- No community Wi-Fi used
- No recording or screenshots allowed
- No sharing of images and/or material to be given to offenders unless preapproved
- No discussions of personal information and/or location allowed to be observed by the offender, i.e., family photos, addresses, etc.
