

Changing Age Demographics in the CT DOC

Since 2009, Connecticut's prison population has contracted by 24%. The reduction has not been uniform across age groups. The chart below illustrates that the greatest declines have been among the youngest offenders. The number of prisoners under 21 fell by 62%, while those under 18 dropped 82%.

