

Desi Nesmith

Student-Centered Learning Hub

#CTLEARNINGHUB

Have you ever wondered what student-centered learning looks like?

Student-centered learning creates new opportunities to lift the level of learning embedded in the educational standards.

The Student-Centered Learning Hub has resources for students and educators to use anytime, anywhere.

The hub gives access to curated resources to support students and educators to have a deeper understanding of how student centered learning works.

We believe all learners can succeed when a child's interests and needs are thought about.

Every student comes in with prior knowledge and talents that will make a big difference in their learning outcomes.

When students are brought back to the center of teaching and learning, learners will show the qualities of the Connecticut Learner Framework:

- Learner-Connected: students and teachers cultivating meaningful, connected relationships;
- Learner-Focused: empowered to develop and reflect on their needs, strengths, interests, and passions;
- Learner-Led: empowered to own their learning;
- Learner-Demonstrated: progressing at their own pace based on what they already know.