Subject: State Department Hearings-Register to Submit Your Comments: Registration Confirmation

I do not feel that the proposed certification changes in special education will benefit students. Many people may reconsider entering the teaching field if it requires more than a Bachelors degree. It is an added expence that is not needed to produce better teachers. I do not think addition education will produce better teachers coming out of college. Education gives you the tools to work with but experience and support from other teachers in your first years gives a valuable understanding to the education you recieved.
