

Leveraging Student Voice To Spark Change

The Leveraging Student Voice to Spark Change webinar series is designed to highlight the different ways that schools across CT have increased opportunities for students to exercise their voice, empowered students to share their perspectives, and built the capacity for student centered learning.

Read

Read one or more articles

- Student Voice: A growing movement within education that benefits students and teachers [Center on Transition Innovations]
- Giving Students a Voice: Five ways to welcome student input and bolster your school's success [Usable Knowledge]
- Eight Ways to Encourage Student Voice [Knowledge Works]
- Adults Must Engage Student Voice [Sound Out]

Watch

Watch one or more videos

- [6:03] Personalized Learning: Enabling Voice and Choice Through Projects [Edutopia]
- [5:14] Giving Students a Voice in Their Education [Education Week]
- [1:06] Voice and Choice in the Classroom: Freedom and Responsibility [InquireEd]
- [2:41] Student Voice and Choice [Vermont Agency of Education]

Reflect

Reflect on the following questions

- What new ideas do you have to increase opportunities for students to exercise their voice in order to become agents for change?
- How will your school/district transfer your new learning to your practice and in your professional learning community?
- What are your next steps and who else would you need to help you create a culture for student empowerment, student discourse, and meaningful student involvement?