Provider Description

Information provided by the provider describing their agency:

My name is Sonji Phillips and I am a Master’s Level Psychologist and graduate of Long Island University College. I have worked with the Developmental Disabilities population for over 20 years in all areas including residential, day services, clinical and respite; with children and adults.

As a Provider of Developmental Disabilities Services here in Connecticut I intend to develop and provide the best possible behavioral intervention services to all individuals while enhancing their ability to improve themselves in areas of socialization, behavior management, independence, and peer interaction skills. It is my intent to improve interpersonal relationships within their circle of support by providing insight and training to all individuals within their personal life. Areas of specialty will be Mand training through approved Applied Behavioral Analysis techniques especially geared towards the autistic population. I would like to initially work in the Southeastern districts in Connecticut and eventually expand my services to Northwestern regions. I am based in Stamford, Connecticut and am interested in working with students in the local schools. My intent is to assist students, peers and staff to deal more effectively in crisis management, alleviating the pressures from the families to consistently intervene.

It is my intent to train families how to meet their loved ones where they are, and foster a learning and creative environment to improve their overall skills and needs. It is my intent not to develop long-term dependent care but to provide training, behavior management and support throughout a period of 6-12 months; while empowering families with future growth and development of their loved ones.

I thank you for considering myself in providing services to you and your loved one.
