INTRODUCTION

HISTORY OF ASSESSOR CERTIFICATION

Connecticut assessors have long been involved in educational efforts designed to improve their professional expertise. The annual Assessor's School at the University of Connecticut, established in 1944 by the Connecticut Association of Assessing Officers (CAAO), has the distinction of being the oldest continuously run education program for assessment professionals in the country.

A voluntary certification program for assessors was established by CAAO in 1962. The Certified Connecticut Assessor (CCA) designation created by the association was modeled on the Certified Assessment Evaluator (CAE) designation then offered by the National Association of Assessing Officers.

In the mid- to late-1960's those who recognized the need for a more formal process began to request legislation establishing a state sponsored certification program. At that time, there were still a substantial number of Connecticut towns that elected a three-member board of assessors. Faced with the argument that certification would represent an intrusion into the electoral process, these early legislative proposals were defeated.

With the advent of laws that are more complex and state-mandated programs, the need for skilled assessors who could perform their jobs with knowledge and integrity became more acute. The Meskill Commission's 1972 Report on Tax Reform recommended the establishment of a state certification program for assessors. This was the impetus for the 1974 legislation that created the Certified Connecticut Municipal Assessor (CCMA) Committee.

The initial members of the CCMA Committee (Walter Birck, one of the earliest proponents of a state-sponsored certification program, Richard Prendergast, Robert Kemp, Joseph Cullen, John Killeen, and Edward Clifford) approved the first formal guidelines regarding the training, examination and certification of assessors. Based on the committee's recommendations, the 35 assessors who then held the CCA designation received their Certified Connecticut Municipal Assessor (CCMA) designations on October 23, 1974. By the end of that year, an additional 61 assessing officers had received the CCMA designation.

Awareness of the proficiency assessors must possess has increased since the first designations were awarded, as has the complexity of the assessment function. Connecticut General Statutes require each assessor, or member of a board of assessors, that sign(s) the grand list must be certified in accordance with CGS 12-40a. Consequently, many towns have made attaining a CCMA designation a condition of employment. To date, more than 350 persons have received their designations and there are at least 150 towns with state certified assessors on staff. This is a clear indication of the success of the certification process and the esteem with which assessor designations are viewed.

There have been several certification program revisions since its inception. Additional course requirements became part of the certification criteria in 1987. Two years later, these criteria were formally adopted as Regulations of Connecticut State Agencies. Recertification requirements were added in 1997, at which time the two current levels of certification were established. During each of these revisions, there has been one constant: the underlying principles of education and experience as a prerequisite for certification have remained unchanged. In 2016 the Regulations were amended and approved and the prescribed education program for both CCMA I & CCMA II designations added Course IV - Revaluation for any certification awarded after December 31, 2017.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS RELATED TO THE CCMA PROGRAM

1. What is a CCMA designation?

A CCMA designation is a Certified Connecticut Municipal Assessor designation. There are two types of designations; CCMA I and CCMA II. They are earned by successful completion of CCMA courses, experience in the assessment or property appraisal field and successful completion of a comprehensive examination.

2. What is the difference between a CCMA I and a CCMA II designation?

The CCMA I and CCMA II are the designations, as established by state regulations in 1987, for assessment personnel who have passed the respective exams and met all education and experience requirements for certification as a certified Assessor in the State of Connecticut.

The CCMA I designation was established to identify professional assessors with the necessary understanding of the administrative practices and procedures, statutory requirements, and valuation techniques to serve in an administrative capacity in the typical Connecticut Assessor's Office.

The CCMA II designation was established to identify professional assessors with a greater breadth of experience in the assessment field, as well as an advanced understanding of the valuation issues and techniques used within the assessment field. Unlike the CCMA I designation, the CCMA II designation requires a thorough understanding of the income approach to value.

3. When and where can these courses be taken?

The courses are offered annually at the Assessor's School that is held the first full week of June, presently at the University of Connecticut, Storrs campus. The courses are sometimes available "on the road" in the autumn months. Each course consists of at least 30 hours of instruction, including an examination. A person is deemed to have successfully completed a course if he or she receives a passing grade on the examination.

4. Is there any exception to taking these courses?

Waivers can be granted for Courses IIA, IIB and III by the Secretary of Office of Policy and Management, provided evidence of successful completion of a comparable appraisal course, or demonstrated competence in a related field is presented. Courses IA, IB, and IV cannot be waived.

5. Is there a comprehensive examination in order to receive the CCMA I or CCMA II designation?

Both CCMA I and CCMA II have a comprehensive examination. Applications for the examination are submitted to the CCMA Committee for approval.

6. What would constitute a reason for denial of an application?

Persons applying are responsible for providing proof of successful completion of courses and required years of experience. If the CCMA Committee feels that the courses taken or the years of experience are not adequate, the application could be denied.

7. Is it possible to appeal a denial?

An applicant may request reconsideration from the CCMA Committee within 7 days of the date of notice of denial. The committee may require the appellant to appear before the Committee and they must notify the appellant of their final decision in writing, within two days of the meeting.

8. Is there a charge for the examination?

Yes. A fee of $40 is due with the application prior to the filing deadline, which is 4 weeks prior to the examination date. The amount of the examination fee is subject to annual review by the CCMA Committee.

9. If one fails the CCMA I or CCMA II examination, may it be retaken?

Yes. The examinee may sit for the next scheduled examination. A second failure, however, may lead to the requirement that the applicant take, or retake courses as specified by the CCMA Committee.

10. Once the designation has been earned, is it permanent?

No, recertification is required as of the fifth anniversary of the date when the original designation was awarded.

11. What are the requirements for recertification?

During the five-year period, the designee must complete at least 50 hours of property assessment or appraisal courses and/or workshops. Proof of successful completion of the courses/workshops must be submitted to the CCMA Committee, along with an application for recertification and a $30 fee. The individual seeking recertification is responsible for maintaining the documentation concerning courses/workshops taken during the 5-year period.

12. What courses or workshops will be acceptable?

The CCMA Committee publishes a list of approved courses and workshops that satisfy the continuing education requirements on the CAAO website at www.cao.com.

13. Is an individual who had the CCMA designation for a number of years required to apply for recertification?

Yes. In order to retain any CCMA designation, the applicant must meet the recertification requirements.

14. Will recertification require the taking and passing an examination?

No, recertification is based on completion of 50 hours of approved courses.

15. Who can one contact for more information?

The chairman of the CCMA Committee.

Frequently Asked Questions about the Continuing Education Requirements

Who has to complete this application?

All persons who are certified as a CCMA I or CCMA II and whose certification is due to expire.

If I am retired or no longer working in an Assessor's Office in Connecticut, do I still have to complete 50 hours of courses or workshops?

Yes, if you wish to retain your certification. There is no exemption from this requirement for inactive assessors or assessment staff.

Do I send proof of program completion with this application?

Yes, copies of the proof of completion must accompany this application. Any program you list on the application that does not have proof of completion will not be accepted. This proof of completion requirement includes courses or workshops held at the Annual School for Assessors and Boards of Assessment Appeal at the University of Connecticut.

What if I do not have Proof of Completion for a program? Can I still list it on the application?

If you are missing proof of completion for a program, you will need to contact the program sponsor for the documentation. If you are not able to acquire the proof, you cannot list that program on this application. If you need proof for a course or workshop held at the Annual School for Assessors and Boards of Assessment Appeal at the University of Connecticut, contact Mary Gardner, CCMA Committee Clerk at Mary.Gardner@ct.gov.

How many hours do I need for recertification?

Fifty (50) hours of approved Continuing Education Programs. This includes both workshops (non-examination) and courses.

When do I have to have taken the workshop or course?

Only workshops and courses completed not earlier than 5 years prior to the expiration date of your current certification can be listed on this reapplication.

What if I am not sure if a workshop or course is "approved"?

A list of workshops and courses approved by the CCMA Committee is available on the Certified CT Municipal Assessor webpage.

What if a workshop or course that I completed is not on the approved list?

You may submit a written application to the CCMA Committee requesting approval of any course or workshop not included in the list. This request for approval must include documentation on the material presented at the program and the length and sponsor of the program.

When is this application due?

At any time within one year prior to the expiration date of your certification. The certificate you received from the State of Connecticut has an expiration date on the upper right corner. All certificates expire on the December 31st five years following the issuance of the certificate.

What happens if I don't complete my Continuing Education requirement prior to the expiration of my certification?

Your CCMA I or CCMA II certification expires. You will need to meet all the current requirements of the CCMA I or CCMA II program to become certified again. This includes completing the course requirements and passing the CCMA examination.

Can any hours be carried over into my next cycle?

No, the regulations require that the continuing education be completed within five years of the expiration of the certification.

Can I take the same course or workshop more than once in the same cycle?

No. However, if a sponsor holds annual programs that change the material and subject matter for each offering, then each annual offering is allowed. For example, the workshop held at the "Annual School for Assessors and Boards of Assessment Appeal" held at the University of Connecticut, changes the material each year and therefore is not considered for recertification to be the same program.
