

Parenting Support Service

NEW

Parenting Support Services empower parents with intellectual disabilities to increase their confidence and competence in their parenting abilities; enhance their children's development, establish positive relationships with their children's schools and make meaningful community connections. Support is available from the first trimester until their child is 18 years old.

Parents may request up to 4 hours of individualized child-focused parenting skills training per week. This service will be paid for through the parent's existing budget allocation unless there are extenuating circumstances requiring PRAT review and approval.

Stay tuned for more information on how to become a Direct-Hire or Qualified Provider for this "NEW" waiver service.
